Frequently Asked Questions

Question1: What is the real opportunity Al-Ameen Education College Presents?

Alhamdulillah Rabbil Alameen. We are pleased to provide this exciting opportunity to parents whose dreams involve raising Muslim children who excel in both their Islamic knowledge and their chosen professions. Drawing from over 25 years of experience, it has been relatively easy to produce skilled university graduates and young individuals who can speak Arabic or memorize the Qur'an. However, combining these achievements with creating "Alfas" or "Alfaresses" with sound knowledge of Islam while still becoming skilled professionals at a young age has remained a challenge. We at Al-Ameen Integrated Education College have taken on this challenge with courage and we aim to deliver it, Inshallah.

Question 2: You really sound courageous. How do you hope to deliver this successfully?

Great question. It is our pleasure to share our plans with you. One small commitment you need to make, though, is that your child would not leave secondary school at 16 but at age 18. Good or bad idea, we'll discuss that shortly, in-shaa Allah. We admit pupils aged 9 -10 who have completed standard primary school (we'll assess their math and English skills, as this foundation is crucial). We take them through a four-year program that containing the "Ille Kewu" syllabus up to thanawiyah level in a 4-term-per-year system under a full boarding environment running a 6-day, 24/7 schedule. Holidays will be brief, totaling no more than 8 weeks in a calendar year.

Question 3: You have only spoken about the Madrassah aspect. How will they still manage to become Engineers or Medical Doctors if they wish?

Thanks, we will get to this shortly. In fact, we were about to get there before you cut in. After the initial four years, graduates will spend 18 months (1-5 years) in Junior Secondary School, focusing on Mathematics, Integrated Science, English, and Business Studies and following that, they will enter a 2.5-year Senior Secondary School Program. In total, a child joining us at age 10 would finish at age 18 and then proceed to university potentially graduating at 23 (in shaa Allah).

Question 4: What gives you the confidence you can deliver this successfully. Particularly the Western education aspects?

Our track record and involvement in Western Education speak for themselves. Alhamdulillah for that, and we won't dwell on it. We have been at it for more than 20 years and alhamdulillah, everything Allah has made us touch has been golden. We pray Allah SWT continues to sustain them and the things we have all ventured into.

Question 5: Are you sure Al-Ameen Integrated Education College won't turn out too expensive?

Being expensive is not an objective of ours but good all round quality costs money. The recent naira devaluation and attendant inflation in the Nigerian economy also raises its own challenges.

May Allah SWT help us.

Question 6: Can people living abroad send their kid to this school?

This might be a perfect fit for those living abroad actually. Homegrown, safe environment, strong Muslim values. We can even add a touch of Cambridge A Level education at the right time. Note that A level studies are completed in approximately 10months in Nigeria.

Question 7: What are the extra things that make you special to the extent that someone delays the university admission of his child by two years?

Please think about it. Don't you think you have seriously advantaged your child by having them leave university at 23 as a matured learned Ustadh/Ustadha? Don't you think you have prepared them stronger for life? Alhamdulillah for the blessing of islam!
